

Structuring material on a nano-scale opens up great possibilities in modern photonics. While it is not possible to see by naked eye the actual design, the clusters of different meta-surfaces create beautiful diffraction patterns. Photo by Ivan Toftul.